TAFT DECLARES HIS PRINCIPLES

War Secretary Discusses National Issues Under Auspices of the Buckeye Republican Club.

RAILROADS, TRUSTS, TARIFF

Ohio Presidential Candidate Makes Clear His Position On These Questions—Stands With Roosevelt—Pays His Respects to Bryan—Favors a Revision of the Tariff After the Election of 1908.

Columbus, O., Aug. 20.—Hon. William H. Taft, secretary of war, and one of the most prominently mentioned candidates for the Republican presidential nomination, in a speech delivered last night under the auspices of the Buckeye Republican club of Columbus, gave to the country what may be regarded as the platform on which he goes before the people.

Secretary Taft was invited to discuss the national issues by the club, which desired to tender him a farewell reception in honor of his departure for the Philippines. His speech was a frank and frank presentation of his views relative to the great questions of absorbing national importance. He made clear his position relative to the railroads, the trusts, and the tariff, and in addition gave a masterly exposition of what has been accomplished under President Roosevelt's administration.

In beginning his speech, Secretary Taft pointed out that there has been a quickening of the public conscience in the midst of the general prosperity of the country that demands a remedy for many abuses in industrial and political affairs. He then took up the railroad question, describing the abuses of rate discriminations and the failure of the old interstate commerce law to afford adequate remedy for these abuses. This made necessary the new rate bill, he said, and he proceeded then to tell what the new rate bill would do.

"The passage of the bill was taken, the country over, and properly taken, as a most important step toward the suppression of abuses which had become a part of the life of the interstate commerce law," he said.

trust, engaged in giving or receiving secret rebates, would have a greater deterrent effect for the future than millions in a fine.

"In the rate bill, congress amended the Elkins bill and restored imprisonment as part of the punishment for secret rebates. Had the railroad and dishonest practices of the railroad companies and the trusts been as clearly known to congress and the public when the Elkins bill was considered as they were when the rate bill was passed, the Elkins bill would not have passed so smoothly.

"I do not wish to deny the merits of the Elkins bill because, aside from its elimination of imprisonment as punishment, it is a most useful measure, but its scope is so narrow in respect of the regulation of railways that it cannot be compared in importance of operation and effect to the rate bill. The increase by the rate bill in the powers of the commission in supervision, investigation, rate fixing and effective order-making to prevent discrimination is great. Elongate making it for making it difficult to violate the law without discovery and for discovering violations when they exist, and for affording affirmative and mandatory relief in requiring railroads to furnish equal facilities to all, is found in the provisions of the new rate bill. Criminal prosecutions will continue to be under the Elkins law, but as amended by the new rate bill. This is because the Elkins law, as amended, contains the part of the interstate commerce legislation which prescribes the punishment for violations of the law and so, in ordinary practice, comes into operation after the violations have been discovered under the other provisions of the rate bill.

"Why, Such Railroad Opposition?" "If the rate bill was likely to be a failure and to accomplish nothing in the regulation of their business, the query naturally arises why did the railroads spend so much money and so great effort to defeat it? Why was it, if it had no effect, that in the interval between the time of its passage and its going into effect, there were filed with the interstate commerce commission more notices of reduced rates by the railroads than ever had been filed in the previous twenty years of the life of the interstate commerce law?"

"Artifice of Country Toward Rate Bill." "The passage of the bill was taken, the country over, and properly taken, as a most important step toward the suppression of abuses which had become a part of the life of the interstate commerce law," he said.

their best source of profit would have reason to complain.

"A much used means of eliminating competition among interstate lines serving the same territory is the acquisition by one company of the stock in another and the election of directors to represent that stock. This process is facilitated by the uncontrolled power to issue securities beyond the needs of the company for its legitimate business and would be curbed by the restriction proposed. The evil ought further to be directly restrained by making it unlawful for an interstate railway to acquire stock in a competing line. This is a simpler remedy of meeting the evil than by recourse to the anti-trust law under the Northern Securities case. In addition to this, competing lines should be prohibited from having common directors or officers.

"These suggestions of additional legislation, in respect to the supervision and control of interstate railways have been made by the interstate commerce commission and I heartily concur in them. They are plainly within the federal jurisdiction under the interstate commerce clause. I do not think that in order to accomplish a good which the federal government with its greater resources and wider geographical reach can bring about more quickly and efficiently, the constitutional limits upon federal action should be blurred out or an unbounded federal power should be expanded by doubtful construction into a field which really belongs to the state. But the right of congress to take any action, not confiscatory, in the most rigid control of interstate commerce can not be denied.

"Objections to Government Ownership." "I am opposed to government ownership. First, because existing government railways are not managed with either the efficiency or economy of privately managed roads and the rates charged are not as low and therefore not so beneficial to the public.

"Second, because it would involve an expenditure of certainly twelve million of dollars to acquire the interstate railways and the creation of an enormous national debt.

"Third, because it would place in the hands of a reckless executive a power of control over business and politics that the imagination can hardly conceive, and would expose our popular institutions to danger.

Secretary Taft declared that this program of railway regulation is not inconsistent with individualism and he said that he would favor railway regulation if it was submitted in and in making a valuation of the physical property of all the railroads, Mr. Taft said that the commission already had sufficient power to do that. "I do not object to valuation," he said, "I thought relevant to my issue, but I merely repeat the assumption that it is to be the best means of a great reform in rates."

Continuing, Secretary Taft pointed out that the frightful loss of life and limb among railway employees called for stringent regulations and he expressed his approval of the new employers' liability law.

The Trusts.

Taking up the question of the trusts, Secretary Taft explained the present anti-trust law, and gave his views regarding unlawful monopoly. He declared that the mere aggregation of all plants in a given line of industry in one ownership does not necessarily suppress competition, but he pointed out the illegal devices employed by some great corporations, and said:

"If an industry is so organized that the time is near at hand for an amendment of the anti-trust law defining in more detail the evils against which it is aimed, making clearer the distinction between lawful agreements reasonably restraining trade and those which are pernicious in their effect, and particularly denouncing the various devices for monopolizing trade which prosecutions and investigations have shown to be used in actual practice. The decisions of the courts and the experience of executive and prosecuting officers make the framing of such a statute possible. It will have the good effect of making more clear to those business men who would obey the law the methods to be avoided.

"Another and perhaps the most effective method in the past for an unlawful trust to maintain itself has been to secure secret rebates or other unlawful advantage in transportation, by threat of withholding business from the carrier. This is undoubtedly what has enabled the Standard Oil company and the sugar trust and other great combinations, to reap an illegal harvest, and to drive all competitors from the field. If by asserting complete federal control over the interstate railway ways of the country, we can suppress secret rebates and discriminations of other kinds, we shall have gone a long way in the suppression of the unlawful trusts.

Answer to Mr. Bryan's Question.

"Mr. Bryan asks me what I would do with the trusts. I answer that I would restrain unlawful trusts with all the efficiency of injunctive process and would punish with all the severity of criminal prosecution every attempt on the part of aggregated capital through the illegal means I have described to suppress competition.

"Mr. Bryan says: 'He would extirpate trusts, root and branch.' If Mr. Bryan's language is more than mere rhetoric and he means to seize the property, to divide it up and sell it in pieces, and dismember the parts, then I am not in favor of his method of dealing with trusts, because I believe

DEATH OF JAMES TOWNSLEY.

James Townsley, one of Cedarville's older citizens died Sabbath morning after about four years of patient suffering. He was a sufferer from Bright's disease and with his advanced age was almost helpless the latter months of his sickness.

During the four years he was with-out his sight which added to his affliction greatly. A few days before his death paralysis set in and his life slowly ebbed away.

The deceased was 81 years of age on June 18th last, having lived all his life in this township. It is claimed that he was the first male child born in town, the location being where his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Owens resided at the present time. During early life he moved to the country with his parents.

He owned a large farm east of town where his youngest son, Frank, lives at present. Mr. Townsley for years bought and sold stock and was known the country over. About nineteen years ago he returned to Cedarville to live in retirement.

He was married twice. His first wife, who died several years ago, was Miss Clara Harper, daughter of Elijah Harper. His second wife who survives him was before marriage Miss Helen Barber.

Besides his two wives he is survived by seven children, as follows: John Townsley, deceased; Cedarville; Mrs. Elizabeth Owens, of Cedarville; Mrs. Mary Jacoby, of near Jamestown; Mrs. Anna Harper, of near Dayton; Mrs. A. Spahr, of Xenia; Robert Townsley, of near Cedarville; and Frank Townsley, who occupies the farm homestead. There are also six grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

His death occurred that of his first wife, as the only one that has occurred in the family in all these years.

The funeral services were held from the late place Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. O. H. Milligan, hymns by Mr. H. C. Middleton, and prayer by Mr. H. C. Middleton.

The pall bearers were grand-children, Mrs. Townsley, James Harper, Leroy Spahr, C. Townsley, Harry Townsley and Robert Townsley.

Among those from out of town, who attended the funeral were: Mrs. Mary Barber and daughter, Mrs. Styles of Springfield; John Townsley of Washington, O.; Miss Ellen Baldwin, Schenck, James Harper and Mr. Frank Knapp; wife of Dayton; W. L. Marshall and wife, Mrs. Charles Erwin and Mrs. E. J. Tarbox of Xenia; Mr. Thomas Moore and wife of Jamestown.

THE SUMMER INSTITUTE.
The first summer institute and picnic was held last Friday in the O. D. Dobbins grove. During the forenoon the weather was threatening and many did not go on this account. However later a good crowd congregated which made the institute more of a success.

In Prof. W. R. McChesney's address four issues were discussed. The race question in which the negro should have equal rights with the whites; the liquor problem which seems on the verge of being overthrown at present; Mormonism, which can only be checked by the influence of the church; and political corruption, to be checked by vigilance at the polls on the part of the voters.

Another topic of general interest was that as used by Mr. O. E. Bradford. The speaker presented the different phases of the tax question which at the present time is being studied by officials in order that a more efficient law can be passed. There is no question of as great interest to the farmer as that of taxation. Yearly the rates increase on land while the moneyed classes are exempt to a certain extent. Bonds have become non-taxable and thousands of dollars go on the free list while the land and property owner, large and small, must meet government expenses whether in the form of state, county, school or municipal taxes.

Miss Alberta Creswell and Louise Barber each gave readings that greatly pleased the audience. Mr. Dobbins has one of the best farms in this section and has it stocked with fine sheep. The crop of soy beans was a novelty to many farmers, who were unacquainted with this product as a food of great value.

SCHOOL NOTICE.
The Cedarville Village Schools will open September 9th. Let every pupil be present at the opening and continue in full daily attendance thereafter.

Pupils starting in late—After all classes have been organized and a considerable amount of work passed over will not be permitted to go with the grade. The first lesson is the most important. Be there to get it and then continue to be there.

Parents—Help the teachers to get your children interested in their school work. Do this at the very opening of school and continue to do it throughout the year. To bring about the desired results, we must have your hearty co-operation. At the close of each month you will receive a report showing the teachers estimate of the pupil. Look to this closely and if there are any deficiencies, help remedy them.

We are maintaining a "1st Grade" High School. It is the desire of the superintendent and teachers to make this second to none. To do this, certain high standards must be met and in order to meet these a considerable amount of home study is necessary in the Grammar and High School grades.

TOWNSHIP BOARD MEETS.
The township board of education met this week and elected H. A. Salt, a graduate of Antioch College for the school in District No. 1.

The board also employed Prof. E. M. Reynolds as superintendent of the township schools at a salary of $85 per month. The Prof. Salt holds his position in the local schools and will meet with and advise the township teachers.

TONS OF PEACHES ARE WASTING.

The following was taken from the Fresno, Cal., Herald, and where Mr. J. S. Brown is located and tells of the wonderful crop of peaches that has been raised in that vicinity:

Tons of peaches are dropping on the ground for want of pickers; canneries are running to their full capacity and many carloads of peaches are being sent out of the valley to bay canneries. This is the fruit situation to-day. "The reason for the congestion is that the fruit is ripening all at once," said a fruit packer this morning. "One man in Fowler estimates that fifty tons of fruit have gone to waste because he can't secure fruit pickers. Many other growers in the same county are also sustaining heavy losses on this account."

The scarcity of help at this time is due to the fact that the raisin pickers are not yet due to arrive but no scarcity is anticipated for the raisin season. Another thing that is bothering the growers is the scarcity of boxes. When the fruit is shipped out of town the railroads are unable to return the boxes on time.

In spite of these drawbacks orchardists are reaping a golden harvest. Prices are higher than they ever were before and the crop is large and of the finest quality. Besides the enormous tonnage put up by local canneries it is estimated that about fourteen carloads of fruit are being shipped daily to bay towns from Fresno, Hanford and Visalia. The canneries are unable to begin to handle the crop as it matures.

Some of the returns received by vinyardists are so great as to cause incredulity. One Fowler grower netted exactly $701.60 from an acre of dried apricots this season. Another Fowler orchardist sold his peach crop for an average of $400 an acre, more than ordinary improved land is valued at.

Vinyardists will begin to pick grapes for drying purposes about the 25th inst., but picking will not be general until September 1st. Packing houses all over the country are now being built.

There is a large crop in sight. In fruit circles just now buying is practically at a stand still. Raisins are quoted at 6-cents a pound and the price is firm but no buyers are in the field and few contracts are being made. The dried peach industry is stagnant. Peaches are quoted at 8 and 10 cents but the packers have quit buying. The sulphur agitation has put an end to activity. Inquiry among the packing houses to-day revealed the fact that several firms are rejecting some of the sulphured fruits but there appears to be other reasons behind this besides the sulphur problem. The statement is made in some quarters that a few of the packers are using the sulphur argument as a sort of hood to get out of a few undesirable contracts.

Raisin grapes are early this year. The estimate has been made that the crop is from seven to ten days ahead of last year. The quality will be much above the average.

OFFICERS ELECTED.
At the annual meeting of the Greene County Mutual Insurance Association, held August 17th, the following officers were re-elected: H. N. Coe, president; J. H. Stormont, secretary and treasurer. The following were elected for three years as directors; S. C. Anderson, J. W. Pollock and J. C. Williamson.

We find from the secretary's report that there is $264,995 insurance in force. New insurance written during the year amounted to $27,180. Renewals $10,405.

To meet the losses for the year and the usual expenses an assessment of 75 cents on $1000 of insurance was ordered.

NO BELL PHONES.
The Bell Telephone Company is no longer making any effort to serve patrons direct. Monday all phones were taken out with the exception of the one in Mr. J. D. Williamson's residence.

From now on all long distance messages must go through the Cedarville Telephone Company exchange. The Bell exchange in Xenia is connected direct with the local exchange. By the payment of a toll fee Cedarville patrons can talk to any subscriber on the Bell lines.

The Bell company has had little business here since the local company started and to hold long distance messages they leave the field to the local company.

Backache

gives woman some of her most miserable and wretched hours. Along with the backache, generally come headache, waist pain, falling feelings, irritability, nervousness and the blues. Have you these periodical troubles? If so, you may know that they are due to disease of some of the most important organs of the body. It is a disease that should be cured in time, through the use of WINE OF CARDUI.

Says Mrs. Blanche E. Stephenson, of 1228 S. 42nd Ave., Chicago, "I suffered miserably for five (5) years with a constant pain in my back and right side and although my husband employed several of the best doctors in this great city, not one could give me relief. At last I took Wine of Cardui, which relieved my pain, prevented an operation and restored me to health." It is a wonderful curative medicine for all women's ills.

INCLUDES NEWSPAPERS.

The postal authorities at Washington, recognizing the liability of postmasters to make mistakes in getting letters in the wrong boxes, have fixed a penalty of $200 on persons taking mail out of the office, other than their own and not returning it at once. This law also includes newspapers. The excuse that it is the postmaster's fault "cuts no ice." If you have been getting other people's mail, take warning.

"One of the peculiarities of the season I have never observed before," says Frank Stephens of New Vienna, "is not a good acre of clover in sight. I've been over a goodly portion of the country the past ten days without seeing a good clover field. I sowed $9 worth of clover seed and can't tell you whether I'm going to have a stand of clover. If the clover crop fails this season I suppose clover will cost about $15 a bushel next season."

Every farmer should have a few sheep, in order to save much of the material grown that may be wasted. Sheep will eat a good many plants which cattle reject, and they graze closer to the ground. Young and tender weeds are delicious to sheep and they, therefore assist in ridding the fields of such pests. A small flock of mutton sheep should be kept for no other purpose than to supply the family with choice meat.

KNABENSHUE'S PASSENGER CARRYING AERIAL CRAFT

Ohio's Famous Inventor Has at Last Mastered the Problem of Aerial Navigation and Presents to the Public the First Passenger Airship in the World's History.

ITS MECHANISM IS A STRONGLY GUARDED SECRET

This Strange, Bewildering Craft Engaged as a Daily Feature at the Ohio State Fair, to Be Held in Columbus, Sept. 23-30, Next, When Opportunity Will Be Afforded Our Citizens to Journey Through the Stars of Air With the Intrepid Navigator—Description of His Aerial Marvel.

A ride through the air—at last it is possible—and the scientist's dream of ages is now an actual reality. Conquered, chartered and guided by the world's greatest navigator of the uncharted skies—Captain A. Roy Knabenshue—visitors to the coming Ohio State Fair will have opportunity of sailing up, into and through the clouds in the latest scientific aerial invention—Knabenshue's passenger-carrying airship. While the timid visitor can only stand in awe and amazement when he beholds this marvelous product of man's skill and ingenuity, his more daring and adventurous neighbor will enjoy the pleasant sensation of gracefully rising from the earth, sailing at a high altitude through the hitherto unexplored seas of air, and after couraging over the grounds and buildings for a period of thirty to forty minutes the daring Captain will bring the monster air vessel safely back to Mother Earth.

All previous inventions of Captain Knabenshue pale into insignificance world, and that within the next decade inventors can enter the sleeping compartment of an airship in the evening in New York City and breakfast in London. His prediction is given weight when we consider the improvements and advancements he has made in aerial navigation during the past year. The craft, then used and which created such a furore in the scientific world is put as a toy when compared with the new passenger-carrying airship.

The most difficult problem to overcome in aerial navigation has been to construct an engine of sufficient power to drive a craft of enormous weight through the air at rapid speed and at the same time keep the weight of the engine at a minimum, that it may not be cumbersome. The engines used in the present passenger-carrying airship are marvels of mechanical skill, as, weighing less than ten pounds, they have a combined driving force equal to forty horse power. These engines are of secret design and have been so closely guarded by Captain Knabenshue that it has been impossible to ascertain anything definite regarding their construction.

Captain Knabenshue's engagement at the Ohio State Fair, Sept. 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, will include daily flights and exhibitions, selecting from the assembled crowd any who desire to accompany him on his trip to the clouds. In addition to his daily flights on the air grounds he will, on Sunday, Sept. 2, encircle the city of Columbus, deliver his passengers in the State Capitol grounds, and after a brief rest will again ascend and return to the exposition grounds. Each afternoon he will encircle the race course and maneuver his craft at high and low altitudes, proving that he has mastered a seemingly unattainable problem. During the interim between flights the machine will be housed in a specially constructed aerodrome where the intricacies of its mechanism will be explained in part by Captain Knabenshue.

While no doubt many airships of the smaller type, such as exhibited last year, will again be featured at many places this season, the Ohio State Fair has an exclusive contract with Captain Knabenshue for the appearance of the passenger-carrying craft, and it can be positively stated that its only exhibition in America will be on the Ohio State Fair grounds, as immediately after the conclusion of his engagement in Columbus the intrepid navigator of the air will depart for Europe to engage in a series of aerial contests with noted foreign aerial masters.

Aside from the marvelous passenger-carrying airship, the Ohio State Board of Agriculture has arranged an exciting balloon race to take place during the week of the fair. These balloons have been constructed especially for racing purposes and each will be in charge of a competent operator. Each balloon will carry three persons in addition to the operator, thus affording Ohio citizens opportunity of engaging in this novel contest which is proving such a fad among the European aristocracy.

As stated above, this will be Knabenshue's only American appearance with the wonderful passenger-carrying airship; thus Ohio citizens will have the honor of being the first passengers to journey through the air on a vessel absolutely under the control of its operator. Visitors should remember that this wonderful machine will positively sail the seas of air each day of the fair, as with its improved mechanism and largest gas envelope it is now possible to sail during the most turbulent weather. The same program will be followed each day, therefore arrangements can be made to visit the fair on any of the advertised dates with absolute certainty that you will witness the flights of this latest aerial invention.

ROY KNABENSHUE

World's Famous Aerial Navigator.

In comparison with this latest aerial vessel. While its mechanism is a secret known only to its inventor, following is a brief description of this marvel:

The elongated gas bag is constructed of thousands of yards of imported silk of finest texture, sewed in squares that it may have the greatest strength. This bag has a capacity of more than twenty thousand cubic feet of hydrogen gas, giving a lifting power of eighteen hundred pounds. The envelope is one hundred and twenty-five feet in length and about thirty-five feet in diameter. On either side are two mammoth aeroplanes, which serve to resist the wind pressure and propel the vessel. The driving power is furnished by two delicately constructed engines of twenty horse power each, enabling the craft to sail through the air at a speed of sixty miles per hour in a calm, while in a moderate wind this velocity is reduced to about forty miles per hour. Captain Knabenshue is now able to sail under any weather conditions in the carrying car is about ninety feet in length and resembles very closely the modern coach of an ordinary street railway. Cushioned seats are provided for the passengers, while the operator sits at the bow of the vessel and guides it in its journey through the seas of air. The propeller and rudders are built along entirely different lines than any heretofore used by Captain Knabenshue, and the vessel as a whole has but faint resemblance to the smaller crafts which heretofore have been shown in this country.

Captain Knabenshue—student and enthusiastic aeronaut that he is—freely predicts that in the not distant future aerial navigation will supplant the ordinary passenger traffic of the

Heart Weakness

The action of the heart depends upon the heart nerves and muscles. When from any cause they become weak or exhausted, and fail to furnish sufficient power, the heart flutters, palpitates, skips beats; and in its effort to keep up its work, causes pain and distress, such as smothering spells, short breath, fainting, pain around heart, arm and shoulders. The circulation is impeded, and the entire system suffers from lack of nourishment.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure makes a heart strong and vigorous by strengthening these nerves and muscles.

"I had palpitation and pain around my heart, and the doctors said it was incurable. I don't believe it was, for after taking six bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, three bottles of the Nervine and three bottles of the Moxie and Laxer Pills I am entirely cured, and feel better than I have for five years, and it is all due to these remedies. I want you to know that your medicine cured me. It relieved me from the first dose, and I kept right on till the pain in my chest was gone, and I kept on feeling better even after I quit taking it. JOHN H. STEPHENS, Belding, Mich.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will tell you where to get the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.
